

Job Searching in the Digital Age

Social Media

LinkedIn - LinkedIn.com – Relationships connections tool - <http://contacts.linkedin.com/>.

Groups - often posts jobs in discussions that are not posted in the "paid" jobs postings. Make sure you connect with 10-20 professional/career groups.

Facebook – graph search will change the way businesses search for employees. BeKnown - Monster's version of LinkedIn as a FB app. Takes you off Facebook to Monster.

Facebook ads - Joshua Waldman writes a blog with useful job search tools.
<http://careerenlightenment.com>

Google+ profile - Alerts, Search, Drive, Hangouts, and Communities. Search your name, G+ profiles show up like an advertisement.

Tumblr ³ search tags like hiring and jobs. Use the platform to write your own blog.

Pinterest ³ – pin your resume with photos and links. Follow a few on this list SlideShare - create a PowerPoint presentation about yourself and post it on this platform. Post other presentations you have created.

Twitter - A couple of resources for twitter include:

search.twitter.com - you can search the same things as signal without having to have a twitter account.

tweetmyjobs.com/ - this works best if you have a twitter account, but lets you enter a field and location, you then would be following a specific career path.

twitter-chat-schedule/ - tweetchats can be useful tools to pick up a few suggestions or information about your industry or your job search.

YouTube – search video resume. Add your video resume to your own channel. Review others first to see what you should do.
